Puzzle of the Day

Is it ethical to teach students in a computer security class how others have penetrated systems? If so, under what conditions would it be ethical to have the students attempt to penetrate computer systems?